Abraham Doolittle and some of his Descendants.

By O. P. Allen, Palmer, Mass.

The origin of the name Doolittle is somewhat obscure. Bardsley in his English Surnames inclines to the opinion that it originated as a nick name, in common with many others after the advent of the Normans in England. W. A. Curtis, in an article in the N. Y. Churchman, holds that Doolittle is an Americanization of the good Huguenot French name De L’Hotel. There is no doubt however that the name has been one of long standing in England, although it is not often found in the history of that country. Hon. Mark Doolittle says in the N. E. Gen. Reg., Vol. 6, p. 293, “That there were prominent Puritan divines (certainly one) flourishing at the time of the great emigration to New England, is well attested. One of the most remarkable men of this sect, was the Rev. Thomas Doolittle, who was a native of Kidderminster in Worcestershire, where he was born in 1630, and for whom the famous Richard Baxter, had a great regard and affection. After completing his college course at Pembroke Hall, in Cambridge, he became minister of Alphage, in London, and kept a private academy in Crophledge. He trained up several ministers of note also. After the Restoration, he became one of the ejected ministers by the act of uniformity. Ten years after, Charles II, licensed him to preach, which license was long to be seen (perhaps to this day) in the vestry in Markwell St., where he used to preach. His curious kindred may be glad to learn this fact. Mr. Doolittle died in London, May 24, 1707, aged 77, and was the last of the ejected ministers in London. He was the author of twenty treatises, chiefly of a theological character." See Granger's Biographical Hist. Eng., Vol. 67—8. Rev. Thomas Doolittle was the third son of Anthony Doolittle, a grocer. I have a copy of his Treatise on the Lord's Supper, a small 24 mo. of 178 pages published in London. 1665. It contains a good portrait of the author by R. White.

Two brothers, John and Abraham Doolittle came from England to Boston as early as 1640 and perhaps earlier. John settled at Rumney Marsh, near Chelsea, where he was quite a prominent man, as will be seen from the following extracts from the Reports of the Record Commissioners of Boston. "14th., of 1 mo., 1652-3 att a generall Towne Meeting" there was chosen "for constable at Romly Marsh John Doolittell." See Report No. 2, p. 114.

"The 12th 1 mo., 1654-5, att a meeting this Day upon publique notis from house, was chosen John Doolitle and others to run the line betweene Lyn and Boston and Charlestown and Boston." See Report No. 2, p. 128.

"Mar. 9, 1662-3, att a publick meeting of all ye inhabitants upon lawful warnings from house to house, was chosen for the yeare ensuing John Doolittle surveyor of highway at Rumny Marsh." See Report No. 7, p. 14.

"18 of 1 mo., 1670-1, John Doelittle was chosen constable for Rumny Marsh." See Report No. 7, p. 59.

1674. In Rumny Marsh rate appears the name of John Doolittle. See Report No. 1, p. 59.

"Apr. 1680, John Dolittle was chosen Tythingeman at Rumny Marsh." See Report No. 7, p. 139.

These extracts are introduced for the purpose of illustrating the methods of doing business in those times and for shewing the estimate of the man among his fellows.

John Doolittle died in 1681; he left no children, so willed his property to his wife Sybel, to whom he was married Oct. 30, 1674. She had been the widow of Miles Nutt, of Malden, and first of John Riddle. See Savage's Gen. Dict.

Abraham Doolittle whose descendants we trace is said to have been the ancestor of all who bear the name in America. As before stated he was an early emigrant to New England, going from Boston to New Haven about 1640, where he purchased or built a house. In 1644 he took the oath of fidelity, and was chosen sheriff of the county; he also served several times as deputy from New Haven. In 1668 he became interested with others in the new settlement of Wallingford, and in 1670, he was one of the committee to manage its affairs, being one of the first and most prominent settlers there.

"He was a member of the vigilance committee in the time of King Philip's war, and his dwelling was fortified during this time by a picket fort, against any attack which might be made by the Indians."* He served several years as one of the selectmen, and was chosen deputy to the General Court for the years 1679-83 and 84.

It seems that he was one of the most prominent men in the early settlement of Wallingford as well as a trusted citizen. At his death his estate was valued at £342. His descendants are numerous and may be found in nearly every section of the Union. Many bearing the name have attained to enviable positions, distinguished as physicians, lawyers, judges, divines and members of Congress, as well as patriots in the war of the Revolution and the late Rebellion.

Abram Doolittle was of New Haven and the father of a large family.

Peck, a merchant from London, b. in 1601, also one of the original proprietors of New Haven, who died at the age of 90 years.) All of her ancestors were prominent men. John Doolittle m. (2) Jan. 29, 1717, Grace Blakesley, probably widow of John, of New Haven. He settled in Wallingford. Date of his death not ascertained. Children:

II. Lieut. Samuel, b. Feb. 4, 1685; m. Melibale ——; m. (2) Jane ——. He settled in Palmer, Mass., in 1731, and died there July 17, 1736. The children of Samuel Doolittle were, Mary, b. June 16, 1712; Ephraim was of Worcester in 1757, Mind-well, b. June 15, 1715; Moses b. Oct. 18, 1732 in Palmer, a child probably by second marriage.

Davis in his history of Wallingford is in error when he says that Samuel Doolittle settled in Northfield and died there in 1736. In the Record of Deeds at Springfield, Mass., Vol. 4, p. 185, I find that Samuel Doolittle late of Hartford, Ct., bought a farm in the Elbows (now Palmer) Oct. 7, 1731 of Thomas Richardson. The name of Lieut. Samuel Doolittle occurs quite frequently in the town history of Palmer, from 1732 until his death. In 1732 he was one of the signers of a petition to the General Court for redress. In 1733 he was appointed one of a committee to lay out necessary roads. In the same year he was one of a committee to build the first meeting house in Palmer. The following quaint notice of his death is found on the Palmer records. "Lieut. Samuel Doolittle Departed this Life on Saturday ye 17th Day of July, 1736, after a Short Illness of two or three days, and was Decently Inter'd on the Day following, after ye Afternoon Service, it being the Sacrament Day, a multitude of people Respectfully attended ye Funeral." I have an original deed given by his son Ephraim, of the farm, as he styles it, of his late honored father Samuel Doolittle, in Palmer; the farm was sold for £300, and the deed was dated July 1, 1757, and was signed by Ephraim and Sarah Doolittle. He was then of Worcester and was called gentleman in the deed. I am unable to gain further information concerning the descendants of Samuel Doolittle; with the exception of Ephraim, who I have no doubt is the subject of the following, found in Winsor's History of Boston Vol. 3, p. 107:

"It is probable that the earliest works raised after Lexington day were some breast-works thrown up across what is now the college yard (Harvard) and it is probable also that they were raised early in May by Colonel Ephraim Doolittle and his men, and, Drake says, Landmarks of Middlesex, p. 243, 'that they extended to the right as far as Holyoke Place.' Near these breastworks and north of the college buildings was the house still standing, now belonging to Harvard University, which was occupied by Gen. Ward."

Col. Ephraim Doolittle’s autograph is given in connection with the above in Windsor’s History and corresponds with the signature in my possession.

He died in Wallingford, Conn., in 1746-7.

3. Rev. Benjamin Doolittle\(^2\), (John\(^2\), Abraham\(^1\),) was born in Wallingford, Ct., July 10, 1695, graduated at Yale, 1716, was the first settled minister in Northfield, Mass., in 1718, where he died in the ministry, Jan. 9, 1748-9. He m. Oct. 14, 1717, Lydia, dau. of Samuel and Mary (Bradley) Todd, and grand-daughter of Christopher Todd, one of the original proprietors of New Haven. Mary Bradley was dau. of William and Alice (Prichard) Bradley, b. Apr. 30, 1653. Her father and mother were the first settlers of New Haven.

The widow of Rev. Benjamin Doolittle m. (2) Oct. 26, 1763, Lient. Jonathan Belding, (3) Nov. 1778, Japhet Chapin of Springfield;* he d. 1786, and his widow returned to Northfield where she d. June 16, 1790, aged 92. “She appeared to be full of faith and good works.” (Church Records.)

*The following, written by Miss Mary Montague of Granby, a great grand daughter of Mr. Chapin, is of interest. “At the date of this marriage, Mr. Chapin was 82 years old, and Mrs. Belding 80. Yet they were so strong that they rode on horseback from Chicopee to Northfield, forty miles, without weariness. She arrayed in a rich sky-blue camel riding hood, made for the occasion, by his daughter Katherine. Parts of the garment are still in the possession of the writer.” “It is said that she possessed great mental as well as physical ability, that she received an unusually refined culture, before her first marriage, and ever after had Rev. Benjamin Doolittle from Wallingford, Ct., was invited to supply the pulpit in Northfield, Mass., in Nov. 1717, his preaching proving acceptable a call to settle there was extended to him which was accepted, and he was ordained over the newly organized church, probably Sept. 2, 1718. His settlement included a dwelling house, sixty acres of land and £100 in money, to be paid in installments in three years. His salary was fixed at £65 per annum for six years, and £75 thereafter, together with an ample supply of firewood. Subsequently himself and widow received grants of land aggregating 865 acres. He came to Northfield when there were but thirty families in town, and when the community were often harassed by the French and Indian incursions. In 1724 his house and buildings were surrounded by a line of pickets as a defense. In 1744 a mount was raised as an additional defense for him at an expense of £18, 7s, 6d. This shows in what perilous times his lot was cast. From Temple and Shelden's Hist. of Northfield, p. 163 we learn that "Rev. Mr. Doolittle combined the two professions of theology and medicine. He was a regularly educated physician and surgeon, and was furnished with books and instruments, and kept a supply of drugs. His own townsmen and the inhabitants of the new settlements as they were made, above Northfield, and the garrisons at Fort Dummer, and the Ashuelots, and No. 4, depended on his services, and in the battles and skirmishes of the old French war, the wounded were brought to him for treatment. In the privilege of that class of society, calculated to increase it. My impression, from what I have heard through those who were well acquainted with her is that her moral and religious character were fully equal to her other attainments. She had been a school teacher before marriage, and in her old age, she devoted much of her time to the instruction of her numerous grandchildren, retaining her faculties to the last. Her death in her 92d year, was occasioned by a fall, while taking one of these children from a table upon which it had climbed."

After the death of Mr. Chapin, his widow returned to Northfield, where she was always known as "Madam Doolittle," and the notice of her death, June 19, 1790, on the church records is that of "Madam Doolittle."
his prime, his medical practice became so large and lucrative as to awaken some jealousy among his tax-paying parishioners.”

Mr. Doolittle was a useful and successful man as pastor and surgeon, and living as he did in the midst of war alarms, his position must have been a trying one. He was a man of thought and decision and met promptly all difficulties. In the midst of his usefulness, his death came suddenly and without warning as will appear from the following account given in the Boston Gazette and Weekly Journal of Jan. 24, 1748-9. “We are informed that on Jan. the 9th instant, the Rev. Mr. Doolittle, pastor of the church in Northfield, was suddenly seized with a pain in his breast, as he was mending a fence in his yard, and died in a few minutes time, to the inexpressible grief of the town in general, as well as his own family in particular.” Rev. Jonathan Ashly of Deerfield preached the funeral sermon from Mark xiii, 37 and Rev. iii, 3. This sermon was published, but contains nothing of note bearing upon the life and character of Mr. Doolittle, which is to be regretted. Mr. Doolittle published one of his sermons in 1748, which he called “An Enquiry into Enthusiasm, being an account of what it is, the Original, Progress and Effect of it.” He also published in 1750, “A Short Narrative of the Mischief done by the French and Indian enemy, on the western frontiers of the Province of Massachusetts Bay,” a pamphlet of 24 pages. This is a concise account of the events amidst which he lived and was an actor, and has formed the foundation on which has been constructed all succeeding accounts of these times. Mr. Drake in his Particular History of the five years French and Indian War in New England, pays a high tribute to his memory. “He was an author deserving the most honorable mention, yet almost entirely unknown, even in the section of country to which his work particularly relates, and the time has not yet arrived among the people there, in which a sense of their obligation has manifested itself in any way of which the world is aware, beyond a head and foot stone in a cemetery.
at Northfield, with a commemorative inscription upon the former."

The inscription on the tombstone referred to above is as follows:

"In memory of the Rev. Mr. Benjamin Doolittle, First Pastor of the Church of Christ in Northfield, who died Jan'y. ye 9. 1748, in the 54th year of his age, and 30th year of his ministry.

Blessed with good intellectual parts,
Well skilled in two important arts,
Nobly he filled the double station,
Both of a preacher and physician,
To cure men's sicknesses and sins,
He took unwearied care and pains,
And strove to make his patient whole,
Thorough in body and soul.
He lov'd his God, lov'd to do good,
To all his friends vast kindness show'd,
Nor could his enemies exclaim,
And say he was not kind to them.
His labors met a sudden close,
Now he enjoys a sweet repose.
And when the just to life shall rise
Among the first he'll mount the skies."

I. Oliver b. Oct. 28, 1718; d. May 6, 1746.

II. Lydia, b. Aug. 24, 1720.

III. Charles, b. July 31, 1722, enlisted in the expedition to Louisburgh under Capt. Alexander in 1745 and was never heard from again. In this connection the following is given as a curiosity. It was found by Mr. Geo. Shelden and copied from an old account book used by John Stebbins of Deerfield, and published in the Gazette and Courier of Greenfield, June 28, 1890.

"1743, May 23, Charles Doolittle to a pare of shoas 0-20-0
To a pare of butts 3-5-0
1744, to a pare of shoas for yourself 1-1-0
to a bullet pouch 0-4-0"
1744-5, Feb. 16, to a pare of shoes 1—2-0
1745, June, to a pare of shoes 1—2-0
1747, Lushus Doolittle (brother of Charles) to a pare of pumps and a pare of down 3-3-0”

Charles Doolittle was a son of Parson Doolittle of Northfield and the above is probably the last trace of him. He was in the expedition against Louisburg which sailed soon after this date. His fate is unknown as he was never heard from.

Note.—In this brochure the author essays to give an account of one branch of the Doolittle family, viz: the descendants of Amzi, son of Rev. Benjamin Doolittle, nearly all of whom will be found in their place. The material for Amzi's descendants has been obtained from family records and from personal correspondence with the members of the families represented, so that it is hoped the matter will be found quite reliable. It is to be regretted, however, that no trace has been found of the family of Luther, son of Amzi. Any information concerning his family will be thankfully received by the author, also reports of any omissions in any of the other families.
