Scope and Content Note

The papers of James Couzens (1872-1936), industrialist and politician, span the years 1903-1940 and consist of correspondence, articles, speeches, printed matter, lists, subject files, and miscellaneous items arranged in the following series: General Correspondence, Special Correspondence, an Addition, and Scrapbooks which have been placed at the end of the collection.

The General Correspondence is a chronological file and the Special Correspondence is arranged by subject matter. Much of the correspondence, particularly during the Depression years, 1929-1936, consists of requests for financial aid from individuals and charitable institutions and organizations. The earliest correspondence relates to Couzens's work with the Ford Motor Company as general manager and treasurer, 1903-1915. Couzens discussed many of the major issues which arose during his senatorial career in correspondence with his secretary in Washington, D.C., John J. Carson.

Among the correspondents in the papers are James F. Byrnes, Arthur Capper, Roy D. Chapin, Charles E. Coughlin, Glenn Hammond Curtiss, Joseph Edward Davies, Horace E. Dodge, John F. Dodge, Henry Ford, William Green, Edgar A. Guest, Herbert Hoover, Cordell Hull, Jesse H. Jones, Charles Horace Mayo, Frank Murphy, Herbert Bayard Swope, Arthur H. Vandenberg, and William H. Woodin.

The Addition includes subject files concerning Couzens's successful campaign for mayor of Detroit in 1918 and his campaign for reelection as senator from Michigan in 1930. There are papers relating to the management of his farm, "Wabeek," near Pontiac, Michigan, and correspondence, agreements, dividend statements, and other papers concerning the early years of the Ford Motor Company. A miscellany in the Addition contains articles written by Couzens and speeches which he delivered during the years 1920-1926.

The Scrapbooks series contains volumes of newspaper clippings which cover Couzens's career in detail for the period 1911-1928.

Organization of the Papers

The collection is arranged in four series:
