Biographical Note

Edwin Markham was born April 23, 1852 in Oregon City, Oregon. He grew up in central California, the son of pioneer parents. He became a school teacher and administrator but gained fame in 1899 with the publication of his most famous poem, "The Man with the Hoe." After the success of this poem, he spent his career as a writer and lecturer. He died March 7, 1940, in New York City.

Scope and Content Note

The papers of Edwin Markham (1852-1940) span the years circa 1893-1937. Included are correspondence, autobiographical notes, drafts and published versions of poems, an annotated typescript with a cover note by H. L. Mencken and page proofs from the American Mercury of "The Ballad of the Gallows-bird," printed matter, and notebooks containing handwritten notes on poems and religion. Notable correspondents include Amelia Josephine Burr, Frederic Lathrop Colver, William Griffith, Robert Underwood Johnson, Anna Catherine Markham, and George Sylvester Viereck.
