Biographical Note

David Banister Morgan, born in West Springfield, Massachusetts, Aug. 22, 1772, trained as a civil engineer before relocating to Louisiana, where he became commander of the Louisiana and Mississippi militia, including during the Battle of New Orleans, 1814-1815, under General Andrew Jackson. Morgan died at Covington, Louisiana, July 15, 1848.

Scope and Content Note

The papers of David Banister Morgan (1773-1848) span the years 1804-1819, with the bulk of the material concentrated in the period 1811-1815. The collection consists of a bound volume mainly of correspondence and other items relating to Morgan's service as commander of the Louisiana and Mississippi militia, under General Andrew Jackson, and at the Battle of New Orleans, 1814-1815. Included are tabulated reports on the strength of the Louisiana militia under Morgan's command and a copy of his printed address to the citizens of New Orleans, December 15, 1814. Also in the collection are several military charts and a few mercantile letters. Correspondents in addition to Jackson (letters dated December 22 and 26, 1814) include William C. C. Claiborne, territorial governor of Louisiana and Mississippi.

Arrangement of the Papers
