A hitherto unpublished photograph of the British encampment at Gully Beach, on the Gallipoli Peninsula. It has now been evacuated. No picture hitherto published has so strikingly shown the scene of some of the most desperate combats of the war. © American Press Association.

"The Princess Dances." The Kaiser and his family in 1895. The Crown Prince, wearing the sword, is now fighting in France. Prince Eitel Frederick, at the piano, is the new King of Serbia.
Exclusive Photograph from Underwood & Underwood.

The ruins of Dinant, Belgium, reduced to crumbling shells of masonry by German guns.
Universal Press and Medem Photo Service.

"The goose step in Galicia." The Kaiser in 1916. He is decorating one of what he is pleased to call his family with the Iron Cross.
Press Illustrating Co.