

PRESIDENT POINCARE, CENTRE, VISITING THE WOUNDED FRENCH-AFRICAN SOLDIERS IN THE COCHIN HOSPITAL.

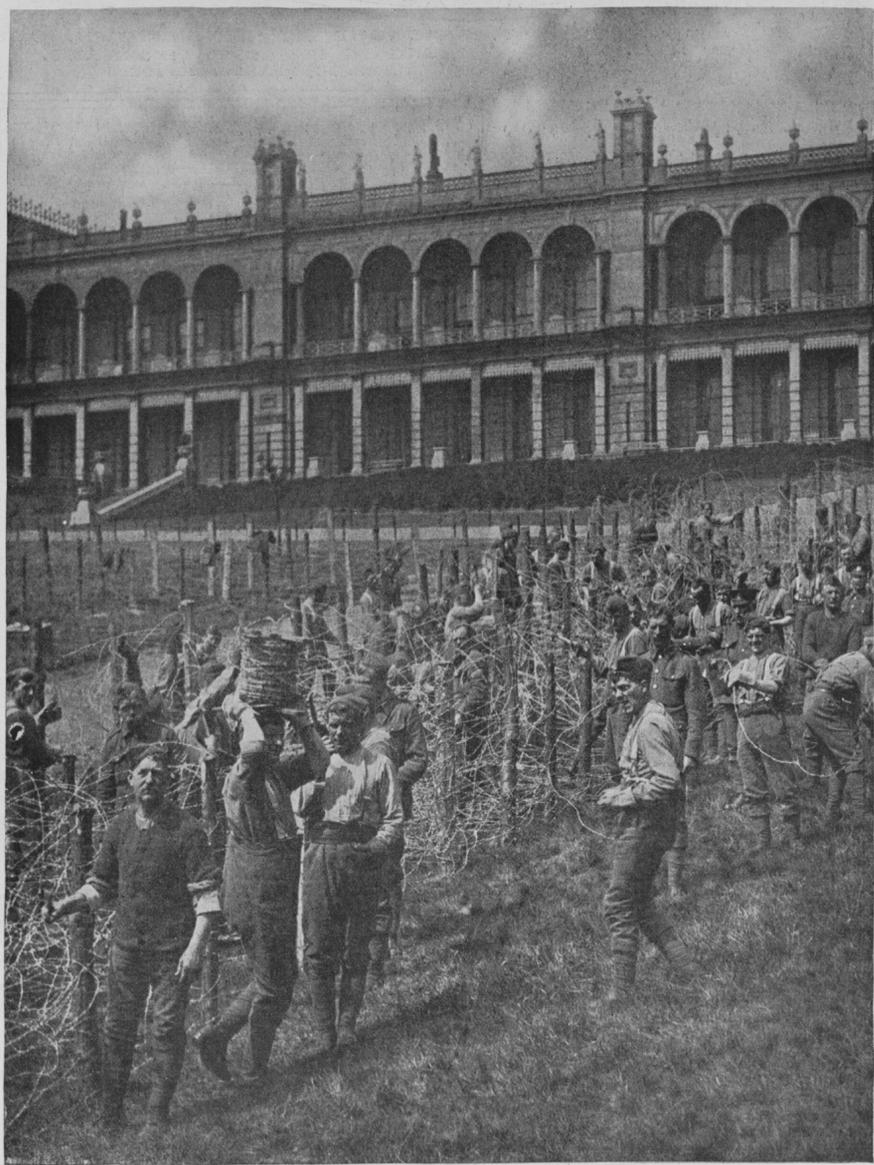

Austrians, Sheltered in the Carpathian Foothills, Loading One of Their Most Powerful Guns, Clearly Shown in the Photograph in Many Details.

(Photo from Paul Thompson.)

ONE OF THE FIRST SHELLS THROWN INTO DUNKIRK, NORTHERNMOST SEAPORT TOWN OF FRANCE, FROM BEHIND THE GERMAN LINES IN BELGIUM, TWENTY-TWO MILES AWAY THE MISSILES KILLING TWENTY PERSONS AND WOUNDING FORTY-FIVE. French Soldiers and Sailors Are Shown Examining the Excavated End of the Shell After the Explosion.

(Photos by Underwood & Underwood.)

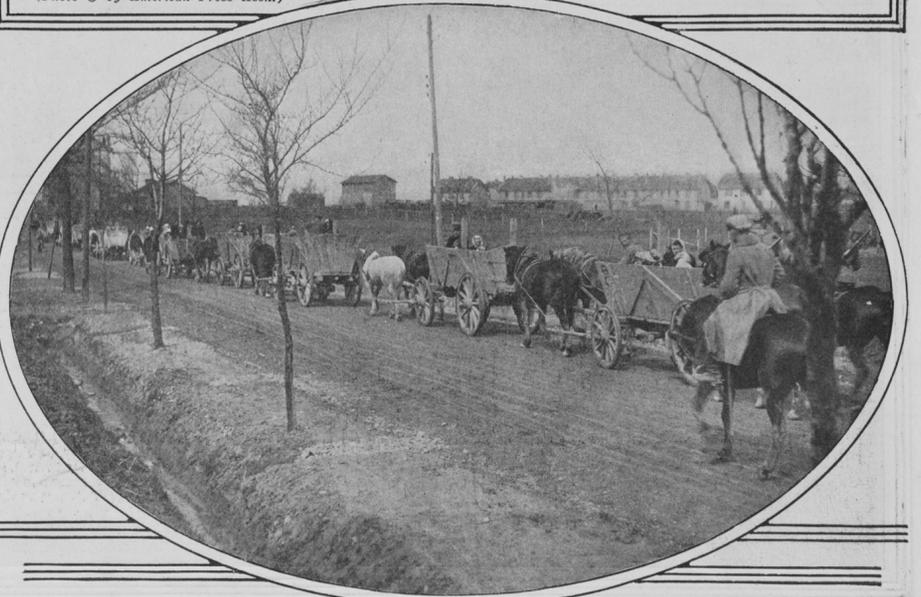

GERMAN PRISONERS OF WAR IN ENGLAND TO LIVE IN ALEXANDRA PALACE, LONDON, AROUND WHICH MEN OF THE NAVIES BATTALION ARE SHOWN THROWING BARBED WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS.

(Photo from Janet M. Cummins.)

WOUNDED ALLIED SOLDIERS ENJOYING A SUN BATH AT LA PARNE, BELGIUM, IN COMFORTABLE WHEEL BASKETS.

(Photo © by American Press Assn.)

Stream of Wagons, in Charge of German Soldiers, Conveying French Women and Children from Captured French Territory, Through Switzerland, Into France to Relieve the German Government of the Burden of Feeding Them.

(Photo from Press Illustrating Co.)